

SIGHT WORD FLUENCY STICKS

Sight word fluency sticks are a developmentally appropriate, low stress, and low maintenance way to differentiate the content that students need to read sight words with fluency. The flashcards for these fluency sticks are provided in this resource. The sight words provided are available for both Dolch and Fry lists. Editable templates are also available! If you have rulers and rings, you are good to go! This resource also includes Avery labels for your fluency sticks. These include: Not Yet, Progressing, and Achieved. Each student gets their own sight word fluency stick and it gets stored in his/her fluency folder.

FLUENCY FOLDERS

Folders are great for storing the fluency sticks, tracking sheets, parent letter, and extra flashcards. The sight word fluency folder cover is provided in this file.

TRACK YOUR PROGRESS
Color the sight word boxes that you have mastered.

TRACKING SHEETS

Dolch and Fry sight word tracking sheets are available in this resource. I have also included an editable template if your district follows a different sight word list. These tracking sheets are very visual and meant to be used by the students. Students are responsible for tracking the sight words that they master. This resource explains how this can be done easily and effectively.

PARENT LETTERS

Parent letters are also part of this resource. The letter explains the benchmarks as well as how the fluency sticks can be implemented at home.
